ABSTRACT

The present disclosure relates to a system and method for facilitating image retrieval. In one arrangement, the method comprises the steps of querying a user as to at least one attribute of an image the user wishes to retrieve, receiving user responses, and presenting at least one image to the user based upon the user response. In one arrangement, the system comprises means for querying a user as to attributes of an image the user wishes to retrieve, means for receiving user responses, and means for presenting images to the user based upon the user responses.